ABOUT THE UNIVERSITY

Haigazian University Overview History and Establishment Haigazian University was established in 1955 in Beirut, Lebanon, through a collaboration between the Armenian Missionary Association of America (AMAA) and the Union of the Armenian Evangelical Churches in the Near East (UAECNE). Originally founded as a two-year college, it evolved into a full-fledged university in 1996, following its intermediate phase as Haigazian University College (1992–1996). The institution was named after Armenag Haigazian, an Armenian theologian and polymath, reflecting its roots in Armenian heritage and commitment to academic excellence. Academic Philosophy and Mission Haigazian University emphasizes a liberal arts education modeled after the American higher...
