ABOUT THE UNIVERSITY

Overview University of the Philippines Manila is a public institution located in Manila, Philippines. Established in 1905, it offers a medical program with a duration of 6 years. For Indian students, the medium of instruction is English, which simplifies the transition into the academic environment. The university is integrated with a teaching hospital, providing students with the necessary clinical exposure required for medical training. The primary intake for the program occurs in September. Recognition & FMGE For Indian students, it is critical to understand the regulatory landscape of medical degrees earned abroad. Currently, University of the Philippines Manila is not NMC approved, and it is not listed with the WHO (World Directory of Medical...
